This seventh edition of the Stomp Off tune index was compiled by Dick Baker, who joins with Bob Erdos in expressing profound gratitude to the many musicians, collectors, and scholars who contributed to the effort over the past three decades. There are too many to list in full, but we are especially grateful to Rob Bamberger, Matthew Caulfield, Mike Durham, Frank Dutton, Erwin Elvers, John Gill, Alex Hassan, Mike Montgomery, Bob Pinsker, Frank Powers, Robbie Rhodes, Dave Robinson, Don Rouse, David Sager, Vince Saunders, Ray Smith, Butch Thompson, Trebor Tichenor, Audrey Van Dyke, Nancy Wyndham, Tex Wyndham, and Dick Zimmerman. But special credit is reserved for Australian record collector, researcher, washboard player and bandleader Bill Haesler for his assistance in the course of 2013 and 2014.

Sources for titles and composers, roughly in order of authority, are original sheet music, the original issued record label, Library of Congress copyright registration files, the several published compilations listed below, and web site databases. Every effort was made to learn the first names of less well-known composers. Initials are used when first names could not be found or when the composer is known by his initials, e.g., W. C. Handy.

At <http://stompoff.dickbaker.org> you will find a copy of this index in searchable PDF format as well as the annotated version with all the research notes that went into to the project. There's also a complete chronological list of every Stomp Off record ever issued.

We invite additional information and corrections. Please write to Dick Baker, 3282 Sunset Terrace, Auburn, CA 95602 or contact me using the form at stompoff.dickbaker.org.

A Note on Subtitles

As we said above, we consider published sheet music to be the primary, most authoritative, source for tune titles and composer credits. But we've learned that sheet music covers occasionally differ from copyright pages, presumably due to miscommunication with, or to artistic license given to, the designer. (The cover says "Nightingale Rag," for example, while the copyright page says "Ragtime Nightingale.") We intend to adhere to the copyright page when it differs from the cover.

But then we have the problem of subtitles. The cover artist has a wide variety of typographical devices available with which to render subtitles, while the copyright page is more limited. Sometimes the composer or publisher makes his intentions obvious by putting the subtitle in parentheses for us, as in

"Put Your Arms Around Me, Honey"

(I Never Knew Any Girl Like You)

More often, we find what we must consider a subtitle set in smaller type under the main title, as in

Oh Daddy Blues
You Won't Have No Mamma At All

Since an index in our format can't deal with over-and-under centering and relative font sizes, we must render such subtitles in parentheses, thus

Oh Daddy Blues (You Won't Have No Mamma at All)

Complicating the issue are the many instances in which publishers use the same format to place helpful hints to the potential purchaser as to the style of the composition, e.g.,

Louisiana

Rag Two-Step

"Cleanin' Up" in Georgia

Cake-Walk Patrol or Two-Step

Coon Hollow Capers

March and Two-Step

It is our approach that such "genre-markers" are publishers' notes to potential buyers, analogous to the ubiquitous (Oriental Fox-Trot) to be found under the titles of so many c. 1920 78s. They are not proper subtitles.
